HANCOCK COUNTY CELEBRATES ITS HEROES

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Hancock County celebrated its military heroes last week with multiple Veterans Day events, including the annual parade in Waveland and ceremonies at VFW Post 4808 in Lakeshore, American Legion Post 139 in Bay St. Louis, St. Clare Catholic Church, Holy Trinity Catholic School, West Hancock Elementary and Bay-Waveland Middle School.

"This is a huge turnout today," veteran Rick Soldin said Saturday during Waveland's parade. "This is really great."

Parade organizer Kristen B. Tusa thanked all the veterans who attended for their service, as well as all the people who made Saturday's celebration possible during a brief ceremony at the Veterans Memorial.

Shore Thing Charters, TBT treat vets to a day of fishing & free lunch

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

For the ninth year in a row, Shore Thing Fishing Charters on Sunday took several boat loads of veterans on a free fishing trip, followed by free lunch at The Blind Tiger.

"The first year, we took two vets. I think this year, we did close to 30," Shore Thing's Capt. Sonny Schindler said. "We try to do as much as we can. It's a way to say thank you. Honestly, I wish we could do it every single day."

"They gave so much of their time, sweat, blood and tears for us, it's a drop in the bucket of what those men and women do for everybody."

"The thing that ties this all together is Thomas Genin with The Blind Tiger," he said. "On Veterans Day, he always does that free lunch for veterans and active-duty military. We started talking about doing it on Veterans Day, but Thomas said we could do it any time."

During Veterans Day ceremony, VFW Post announces new 'Van for Vets' program -- courtesy of the Silver Slipper

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

During a special Veterans Day ceremony on Thursday, Sam Ladner Memorial VFW Post 4808 in Lakeshore dedicated a new van donated by Silver Slipper Casino for the post's Van for Vets program.

"We were just thrilled to be able to do this," Silver Slipper CEO John Ferrucci said Thursday.

Ferrucci said the donation was not "about" the Silver Slipper or himself, but about helping the community and serving Hancock County's veterans.

Post Cmdr. Chris Cambre said the Van for Vets program started about five years ago, under the leadership of Dan Bilbo, Packer Ladner and Herman Ladner, but the van the post has been using was getting old and had been vandalized.

Post Quartermaster Ray Carver said some post members first approached Ferrucci about

Diamondhead moves ahead on plan to create new 'town center'

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

The city of Diamondhead last week moved one step closer to creating its new business corridor—the first step in its 20-year Envision 2040 comprehensive plan—including a new town center and millions of dollars' worth of new business and investment.

"Exciting things are happening in Diamondhead," City Manager Michael J. Reso said last week.

Members of the Diamondhead City Council last week heard a presentation from Ben Benvenuti from Covington Engineering on the new town center roads.

"We are focused on phase 1 to breaking ground early 2022," Reso said. "Then, we will move to phase 2 with hopes of breaking ground in late 2022. Covington is now moving onto construction plans, including drainage, utilities, street lights, and landscaping for phase 1.

"The city is currently bidding phase 1 of the E. Aloha Drive roadway improvement (curb to curb construction with parallel parking). We will quickly move into phase 2, which will add 10-foot sidewalks on each side of the road, decorative streetlights, landscaping, public art, etc. The city has about $800,000 in grants dedicated to this project."

Reso said the city received a Gulf Coast Restoration Fund grant totaling $4.2 million for phase 1 of the Town Center roads project from the Mississippi Legislature.

"The city also received a planning grant form GRCP for $75,000 to develop a wayfinding, navigation and implementation master plan," Reso said. "That project will start soon with Orion Planning and Design."

The Diamondhead City Council officially adopted the Envision Diamondhead 2040 comprehensive plan in July.

Part of the master plan, Reso said, is a "town center," which local legislators were able to appropriate $1.5 million for through Gulf Coast Restoration funds.

"This included a revitalization of the commercial district starting with E. Aloha," Reso said, "our entrance and the new town center."

The city last year contracted with Orion Planning and Design, which crafted the comprehensive plan with community input.

"MDOT is also doing a project to improve our exit 16 (off I-10) that includes adding roundabouts," Reso said, "expanding the overpass to have three lanes of traffic and a 10-foot multi-modal lane over I-10 for pedestrians, bikes and golf carts. This will connect the Northside to the Southside. This is paid by MDOT for $6.9 million. The city will also add high mast lighting ... on exit 16 for about $650,000.

"We are open for development and creating an environment to attract new businesses."

Envision 2040 "is a critical document for our community," Reso said. "It creates the vision for the future based on residents' input. It directs the future land use for zoning, ordinances, mobility, capital projects (i.e. roads, drainage, buildings, and other infrastructure needs). A plan of action will be developed and implemented over time to achieve the vision that our residents have imagined through this year-long process."

The Diamondhead Boaters Association kept it real cool at their Sock Hop on September 25th. Party goers were treated to a 1950’s soda shop/dinner vibe designed by event Chairperson Eva Amos and her team. Each table had old fashioned milkshake decor, and photo op jukebox and classic car moments were perfect touches to create the rocking mood. In The Club at Diamondhead, era themed music filled the ballroom sparking decade style dancing. Members were encouraged to dress in Sock Hop fashion, and the group did not disappoint! Poodle skirts, chiffon neck scarves, pink ladies, greasers and cat eye glasses were all in attendance. Needless to say, Boaters shook, rattled and rolled the evening away!

Who wants to be normal?

I have a love/hate relationship with this time of year.

The weather has finally cooled off and I love when the leaves fall and leave behind bare branches. To me, it’s beautiful.

For a brief moment in South Mississippi, there is the hint of the smell of fall. I first noticed that smell during my first semester in college at Ole Miss. It was my first true fall experience, colorful leaves and all.

During my youth, I loved this time of year because it meant we got a long break from school.

Nowadays, it’s kind of a disheartening time of year.

Everyone is in such a rush to prepare for the big Thanksgiving dinner, which can often take days.

People are making travel preparations.

Some are even making their Black Friday shopping lists.

Now, I do like some traditions. Like our family’s annual viewing of “It’s a Wonderful Life,” home-made eggnog and beignets.

But, years ago, I started finding all the generally accepted traditions so boring.

I mean, if you’ve seen one Macy’s Thanksgiving Day parade, you’ve basically seen them all.

Then there’s the dinner menu. The grocery aisles are lined with pumpkin pie filling, stuffing, cranberry sauce, turkeys, etc. It’s almost as if everyone is programmed to eat this one particular meal on the very same day at almost the same time as everyone else in America.

Then what happens, they end up stuffed and lying on the couch to watch football, surprising no one.

Everyone has the same decor, probably purchased from Michael’s or Hobby Lobby. Those stores give me the creeps, by the way.

Usually, everyone makes a long social media post about what they’re grateful for. Meanwhile, the rest of the year is spent writing long diatribes filled with hate.

In essence, it’s boring. Most people doing the same thing over, and over, and over again.

My Maw Maw used to make the most wonderful ground meat dressing this time of year. Of course, most everything she made was wonderful.

Right before our family’s Thanksgiving, she

Hancock History: Dillville Turpentine

The Dill and Vizard turpentine kiln in Bayou LaCroix (Dillville) coexisted with the sawmill in the second half of the 19th century. The Hancock Naval Stores Company bought it out around 1910. Nevertheless, the town of Bayou LaCroix was called Dillville until the 1930’s. R.R. Perkins, who was a key figure in the turpentine industry in Hancock County, organized this turpentine company. Perkins came to Mississippi from South Carolina and organized into two conglomerates all of the ten kilns in the county. The Hancock County Naval Stores Company was domiciled in Dillville; and this enterprise was worth $250,000, working seventy crops with ten thousand turpentine boxes each. Schooners shipped Naval Stores products of turpentine, resin, tar, and pitch in the early days and by tugboats/barges later. They loaded the barrels of product at the wharves at Bayou LaCroix for distribution to Mobile, New Orleans, and Gulfport. In Gulfport the barrels of naval stores were transferred to ocean-going vessels headed for European ports.

By the turn of the 20th century Dillville had become a small, but busy commercial port on a navigable waterway-Bayou LaCroix. The port community boasted a sawmill, turpentine kiln, church, school, store, cemetery, post office, and over one hundred residents. Many of the farmers worked part-time in the kiln and sawmill operation to supplement their income, especially in the off-season.

The sawmill operation at Bayou LaCroix was the R.J. Williams Lumber Company that was one of the best-equipped yellow pine mills in south Mississippi in that era. Logs were transferred to the mill from the piney forest by a network of small gauge “dummy lines” hauled by small logging railroad engines. The company also maintained a shingle mill. After all the huge virgin pine trees were cut down in Hancock County, the sawmill era ended about 1930, and the turpentine kilns and lumber sawmills went out of business. All that remains today at the site of the old sawmill is the “old mill pond” which is near the original Zengerling house.

Like many small towns in Hancock County, sustenance farmers survived economically in the first half of the 20th century through the Depression in spite of the demise of the turpentine and timber industries. The farmers raised livestock and grew crops such as corn, sweet potatoes, and watermelons. A community of closely-knit families thrived on small tracts of land of forty to one hundred acres. The old one room Dillville wooden school building taught twelve to thirty white and Indian children in 1907. By 1920, there were seventeen pupils. Family names recorded on a 1920 photograph of the schoolchildren included Zengerling, Ladner, Moran, Johnson, Lusich, and Favre. Other family names engraved on tombstones in the cemetery include Garcia, Sones, Wainwright, Asher, and Rutherford.

Prior to 1948, the Holy Cross Catholic Church held mass once a month performed by Monsignor Gmelch. After 1948, a mass was giv-

How to Make the Most of Your Medicare Plan

Guest Column
By Matt Berger

The countdown has begun for the more than 60 million Americans – including the 600 thousand individuals in Mississippi – who rely on Medicare for their health insurance, as eligible individuals have until Tuesday, December 7 to select their 2022 Medicare Advantage and Medicare Prescription Drug Plan.

Since the Medicare plan you select by the upcoming deadline is the plan you’ll have for all of 2022, with a few exceptions, it’s important to consider your anticipated health needs carefully, particularly as the COVID pandemic continues. In fact, a new national poll from Humana found that nearly half of seniors say they’ll pay closer attention to what is and is not covered by 2022 health plans than in previous years.

Whether you’re evaluating your current plan or just became eligible for Medicare, consider the following as you work to make an informed decision on coverage options:

Evaluate the essentials: Determine what’s necessary to have in your plan, such as which doctors and hospitals are in-network and whether vision, hearing and dental coverage is included. Prescription drug coverage is also an important consideration, as it is included in many Medicare Advantage plans but not covered by Original Medicare, also known as fee-for-service Medicare. You may want to have a list of your medications handy since you’ll be able to compare estimated prescription costs with each plan.

Inquire about innovative benefits: Once you identify your basic health needs, think about what else is important to your overall health and well-being. For example, if you like to work out, look for a plan that includes a fitness program as a benefit, knowing that many Medicare Advantage plans offer a gym membership. If you travel or became more comfortable with telehealth services due to the pandemic, see if a plan that offers $0 telehealth copays is available in your area. Some plans even offer benefits for members with a confirmed COVID diagnosis, including 14 days of home-delivered meals (up to 28 meals).

Turn to trusted sources: According to the Humana poll, nearly 2 in 3 seniors say they will consult at least one resource to help them select their plan for the upcoming year; however, it’s important beneficiaries turn to credible sources. For example, the Medicare Plan Finder on Medicare.gov can help you to compare plans, benefits and get estimated plan costs based on an average member. In addition to reliable websites, many licensed sales agents offer educational and sales workshops as well as the would let me know that she would be making it for me.

But as much as I love that meat dressing, I would give anything to visit with her again on some random day of the week.
In all the hustle and bustle of trying to make the perfect meal, crazy travel schedules, and turkey decor, we seem to lose sight of the things that really matter and our own individual personalities.
I mean I can't be the only one who thinks it's weird that mostly everyone prepares the same foods, watches the same programs, etc., etc.

As the years go on, it seems to me that Thanksgiving is less about being "thankful" and more about aesthetics, sports, parades, and Black Friday preparation.
In essence, it's become shallow. We've been programmed to think that this is the way Thanksgiving should be celebrated or normal. Normal is defined as "conforming to a standard; usual, typical, or expected."
As we've learned during this pandemic, take away the "normal" and people get angry. Why can't people adapt to change?
For one thing, it's used as a form of control. Case in point, many politicians boasted about "bringing back football" and watching it in person in stadiums without "fear."
It's like Orwell said in "1984," So long as they (the Proles) continued to work and breed, their other activities were without importance. Left to themselves, like cattle turned loose upon the plains of Argentina, they had reverted to a style of life that appeared natural to them, a sort of ancestral pattern...Heavy physical work, the care of home and children, petty quarrels with neighbors, films, football, beer, and above all, gambling filled up the horizon of their minds. To keep them in control was not difficult."
So yes, the powers that be want people to continue dressing up in the same color to support their respective teams, crowding the parade routes, watching the same films year after year (I'm looking at you "Charlie Brown's Thanksgiving"), etc. Because it's "normal" and they want your vote while they continue to make poor decisions for their constituents. But people won't notice and will continue to vote against their best interests, because they brought back football and parades.
Yes, for me to say things like that, one would say that I'm not normal. Good, who wants to be normal anyway.

As with any major decision, proper research es were sulkng horse carriages (a lightweight two-wheeled single seat cart). Stables for the horses were present next to the racetrack, surrounded by a cypress fence. On the other side of the Bayou LeCroix Road, a man named Schwilk built an outdoor picnic venue that he rented to corporations for large company picnics for up to five hundred guests. The park had a pool, a lifeguard, and a caretaker.

In 1964, NASA established a buffer zone taking one third of the land in Hancock County, forcing the residents in small towns such as Logtown, Santa Rosa, Napoleonville, Gainesville, Westonia, and Bayou LaCroix to relocate elsewhere in the county. Many members of the Ladner and Zengerling families moved to Ansley. Bayou LeCroix is now a ghost town. The cemetery is still maintained by the descendants of the original settlers, but no building such as the church remains.
Today, much of the land in Bayou LeCroix is owned by the prominent New Orleans Hunter White Family. This large tract of timberland is used for recreation such as hunting. A large amount of this land was originally acquired by Emile Joseph Cue, Jr., a prominent business and political leader in the county during the first half of the 20th century.

In conclusion, the story of Bayou LeCroix is another testament to the importance of small towns in the formation of the civilization and culture of Hancock County over the last two hundred years. Many old families in the county can boast of some Choctaw ancestry because white pioneer settlers in Bayou LeCroix and in other historic communities enjoyed having these Indian neighbors. A walk through the Bayou LaCroix Cemetery will reveal the names of the important old families that worked their farms and owned land, a few for four generations. The historic Zengerling and Ladner families will be the subject of a forthcoming column.

WILLIAM “BILL” JOSEPH ADAM JR.

William “Bill” Joseph Adam Jr., 87, passed away Friday, November 12, 2021, at his Bay St. Louis home with his devoted wife, Charleen, by his side. Bill, born November 1, 1934, in New Orleans, LA, was the son of the late William J. Adam Sr. and Amelie Toelke Adam.

Although a New Orleans native, Bill enjoyed childhood summers on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and fulfilled a dream when he finally established a Bay St. Louis address for his family in the 1970s. Bill loved being on the water and boating and fishing were among his greatest pleasures as a young man.

Bill was known as a man of integrity in business and family circles alike. In 1968, after establishing himself as a successful salesman who connected well with people, Bill opened his own business in New Orleans, L&A Plastics, a building products wholesale firm which served areas of Louisiana and Mississippi for many years. He retired in 2000, making Bay St. Louis his permanent home.

A lifelong Catholic, Bill possessed a kind and generous nature. His family was his dearest passion. Bill was married to Charleen Wegmann Adam for almost 66 years and maintained a loving and deep connection with his two sons, Bill III and Steve. Bill was always a food enthusiast, and wife Charleen’s culinary skills made for many a joyous and bountiful meal, always shared with an abundance of family. He and Charleen shared a zest for travel, enjoying many adventures at home and abroad during their life together. Antiquing was another great hobby they embarked upon together, discovering treasures for their home and new friendships along the way.

In addition to his parents, Bill was preceded in death by his only sibling, Amelie Adam Schwartz, New Orleans. He is survived by his wife and most cherished companion, Charleen Wegmann Adam; his sons, William J. Adam III (Margaret) and Steven C. Adam (Missy), Bay St. Louis; three grandchildren, Matthew Adam (Stephanie), Bay St. Louis, Clare A. Bishop (Jedah), Pass Christian, and Laura J. Adam (Wesley Keel), Westwego, LA.; five great-grandchildren: Brodie, Brantley, Brooks, Declan and Boden; numerous nieces and nephews, as well as great-nieces and nephews.

The Adam family would like to offer our sincere appreciation to the nurses of Notre Dame Hospice, and particularly to Pam Williams, who was a steadfast, loyal and loving caregiver for Bill.

Masses are preferred but memorial contributions may also be made to the Shrine of Our Lady of Prompt Succor at Ursuline Academy in New Orleans.

Private funeral services will be held for the immediate family.

Riemann Family Funeral Home, 141 Hwy 90, Waveland is in charge of arrangements.

Board hears complaint about cargo containers in residential areas

BY CASSANDRA FAYRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday heard from Kiln resident Sue Richards about cargo containers in residential areas.

She represented residents from Azalea Circle in Kiln who are requesting that the board review Hancock County’s zoning regulations regarding placement of ocean cargo containers used for storage in primary residential communities.

“Azalea Circle is a dead end street with one lane,” she said. “Currently, there are seven residents on this street. Recently, a permit was issued for a pole barn for an RV and a permit for a 40-foot reddish orange ocean cargo container for storage, which has been placed in his front yard. This cargo container was moved into the community without regard to the negative impact. It is in a prominent visible location and the first thing you see when you turn into our community.”

Richards said that she understands the owner of the storage container was issued a permit and within the legal right.

“Because of this action, I would like to see the board look at establishing some regulations,” she said.

The Richards purchased their property in 1985.

“Through our own physical labors, we have made our home the place we would rather be more than anywhere in the world,” she said. “Until now, when we’ve turned onto Azalea Circle, we could take a sigh of relief, ‘we’re home.’ Now, when we turn on the circle, we see this container and it’s gut-wrenching.”

Richards said that regardless of whether the area is zoned agricultural or residential, there should be “common guidelines to maintain the integrity of surrounding property that weighs heavily on the appearance of property values.”

“We are asking that you create an ordinance that protects citizens from future inappropriate placement of cargo containers, which may require appropriate placement, possible putting advertisements for the Silver Slipper on a new van to help pay for it, when Ferrucci surprised them and bought the van for the post.

“Mr. John went way, way beyond our expectations,” Cambre said.

The van is a 2015 Starcraft Wheelchair-accessible vehicle, and volunteers from the Van for Vets program will use it to transport any veterans in Hancock County to their scheduled doctor or hospital appointments, if they have no other means of transportation available.

Carver said in a speech during the ceremony that Veterans Day was established to “honor all veterans who unselfishly put themselves in the line of fire” for their kin and country.

“A true soldier fights not because he hates what is in front of him,” Carver said, “but because he loves that which is behind him.”

However, he said, “You don’t have to join the ranks of our military to defend our freedoms and our way of life,” but you can also do so by supporting your community.

“Today, we’d like to salute one of our community heroes, Mr. John Ferrucci,” he said.

“I know Mr. John said it’s not about him or the Silver Slipper, that it’s about our veterans and taking care of them — but it’s because of his generosity that we can start this program now and not months in the future.”

Ferrucci thanked the post — and Coca Cola, which allowed him to use its promotional funds to purchase the van — as well as the Slipper’s ad agency, the Ad Group, which designed the vehicle’s graphics.

“This was actually a perfect opportunity for us to show our gratitude to the veterans of Hancock County,” Ferrucci said. “This is an opportunity for us to show our appreciation all year long, not just on Nov. 11.”

al at Coleman and Beach Boulevard.

“It was great to say thank you to some of our local veterans today,” Tusa said on social media.

On Sunday, St. Clare Catholic Church and the St. Clare Knights of Columbus offered a special mass and Veterans lunch.

“It was a blessing to spend a beautiful Sunday in Waveland with local veterans from the Mississippi coast,” U.S. Rep. Steven M. Palazzo said Monday. “Father Jacob- Matthew Smith led a remarkable mass and I am grateful to have been asked to stay for the delicious lunch afterward. Church volunteers and the St. Clare Knights of Columbus worked hard to make this event special for our community members that have served this great nation.

In south Mississippi, we cherish and support our service members, and it’s an honor and a privilege to represent those values in Washington.”

Father Jacob-Matthew Smith is also a retired United States Marine Corps veteran.

Palazzo said that among the veterans attending Sunday’s service was Ken Duncan, who Palazzo presented with the Purple Heart Award in 2014.

Lessons from a Hurricane

By C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN.

C. Gerald Richardson, D. Min.

A recent reading of the book, The Great Deluge by historian Douglas Brinkley provided a profound reminder of the storm which changed the lives of many people not only in New Orleans, but on much of the Gulf Coast which we call home. Brinkley does a remarkable job of re-creating the drama of that catastrophic event and the many stories of hardship, uncertain leaders, political gamesmanship, and sometimes, basic incompetence of that experience.

The storm was an unspeakable horror. It took the lives of hundreds. It deprived many more of their homes and property. It displaced many citizens of our area causing them to relocate into other parts of the country. Some of them never returned. Although recovery has provided much healing and restoration, there are some people who will never fully overcome the losses they sustained and the emotional trauma which they endured.

There are also numerous incidents of personal sacrifice, intense commitment, exhausting work, and redemptive acts of kindness on the part of individuals who gave time, effort, money, and love on behalf of total strangers. Hopefully, these are the stories that will be remembered and etched into the culture of our people as we move into the future.

What lessons are available to us as we reflect on those painful days?

Maybe the most important one comes from the quiet courage and determination of people such as an African American pastor in one of the hardest hit areas.

He was never taken seriously by authorities, and in fact, he was warned away from some of the areas. However, he kept coming back. He rescued people. He comforted the injured and dying. He brought life-giving water and nourishment to some who may well have perished without his help. He did all of this without any motivation other than his desire to serve his people, and his commitment to follow the teaching of his spiritual values.

Another useful lesson is the way in which people from all walks of life came together to offer help and hope. Some were from the local area. Others were from far away. Some were wealthy. Others were as poor as those they were trying to assist. Some were business leaders and even corporate giants. Others were common workers, skilled technicians, and those who just wanted to do what they could. Together they provided much help and saved many lives.

There were, of course, emergency respondents, military people (both reserve and active duty), law enforcement officers who remained and worked while many abandoned their jobs, and other mid and lower level civil servants who gave tirelessly of their time, energy and skill to try to make things better for as many people as possible.

We can learn and be encouraged by these examples. Many times we are unable to change circumstances, but we can often have an impact on the lives of people who are affected by them. We can show love and compassion for the ones who are hurting. In other words, we can do what we can. It might amaze us how much difference it can make.

He said that HCPC is trying to facilitate and move things forward with design, build, and bid services.

LaFontaine said that also included meeting with builders of similar “successful” facilities in the state, which included the Forrest County Multipurpose Center, built in 1998.

“That center currently has 350 stalls that have adequate electrical and wash racks to accommodate large equine type events,” he said. “They also have an additional 147 RV spaces that have city sewer on site. The current multipurpose center has seating for roughly 2,800. They host about 36 events annually, which includes equine shows, music venue, motor cross, and other type of trade shows.”

He said the facility also takes walkability and weather conditions into consideration, has multiple restroom facilities, and additional parking spaces for about 1,000 vehicles across the 150 to 160 acres. There are also multiple concession facilities which are contracted out.

The Forrest County

Center has about five employees, LaFontaine said, and part-time labor based upon events.

“The average budget is roughly a little over $500,000,” he said, “and generates about $400,000 in revenue. I would say that 90-plus percent of their revenue comes from RV stalls.”

He said that the Forrest County Center is also “fully climate controlled.”

The next site LaFontaine discussed was the Lauderdale County Agri-Center in Meridian, which was also built around 1998, and sits on about 20 acres. It has about 250 stalls and numerous electrical and wash racks in the stall area.

“They have approximately 80 RV spaces, sewer is also on site,” LaFontaine said. “Seating for approximately 2,000. They host about 45 events annually, which is focused on trade shows, equine, music, goat shows. They, too, have multiple restroom facilities, concessions, three employees, part-time labor based upon shows, $400,000 annual budget, but approximately only $200,000 in revenue.”

He said that there are about 300 parking spaces and revenue is mostly derived from RV, stalls, selling shavings, and concession stands.

“The site itself really limits their ability, not only for growth, but to accommodate anything very large,” he said.

The last facility LaFontaine spoke about was — and most comparable to Hancock County — the Mississippi Horse Park in Starkville, which is a three-way partnership between the city of Starkville, the county, and Mississippi State University. This facility was also built around 1998.

The facility has about 325 stalls, but can go up to 500 because of access to an open arena, LaFontaine said.

The Horse Park has 147 RV spaces, however it doesn’t have sewer completely on-site, but has a dump station.

There is seating for 3,000 and LaFontaine said this facility seems to host the most annual events, which is between 52 and 56. Those are equine, music, trade shows, and agricultural shows.

The site also has multiple restroom facilities and concession stands throughout, he said.

There are three employees and part-time labor, he said. The park also works with the local sheriff’s department for different needs.

“$500,000 a year in expenses and $500,000 a year in revenue,” La-

Fontaine said. “But, they also established a foundation where they basically have over $500,000 sitting in that foundation to help for any different upgrades or needs they have throughout the year.”

There are parking space to accommodate about 800 vehicles and 90 percent of the revenue comes from RV, stalls, shavings, and concessions.

LaFontaine then moved on to recommendations for Phase I of Hancock County’s arena project.

Based upon the visits to the above mentioned arenas, LaFontaine suggests that the board prioritize the following:

- Increasing current stall capacity from 120 to at least 325 to 350.
- Increasing and improving RV sites to a minimum of 140 with adequate drainage or dump station capability.
- Restroom facilities.
- An additional covered warmup area near the arena.
- Proper parking.
- Proper dirt.
- A partial enclosure at the main arena to limit humidity, moisture, and the elements.
- Lighting, wash racks, and electrical upgrades for the existing facilities.
- Appropriate fencing.
- Look at rebranding to align with tourism and marketing efforts.

“The other thing we noticed is that every facility of this scale had a partnership with Mississippi State,” LaFontaine said. “Every one of these facilities also had office space on site for the Mississippi State Extension Services and for the 4-H groups. So, I think that’s something we probably need to have a conversation about sooner, rather than later and see if a partnership is a possibility.”

Meet handsome Atlas.

He may not be a pup, but he is young at heart and ready to play! He loves hanging out in our doggie play yard with our staff & volunteers. And, look at that face!!! Atlas may have a frosted face, but he is still very active and playful, so he's not ready for retirement quite yet. This 5 to 6 year old Hound/Terrier mix loves exploring our doggie exercise yard in true Hound fashion...nose to the ground in pursuit of an interesting scent. However, he quickly returns from his adventures to give kisses and cuddles and have his tummy rubbed. He really is the sweetest fella. A home with a fenced backyard is a must, as he does love the outdoors. Atlas would be a wonderful companion for a single person or couple of any age. He'd also be a great buddy for children seeking a BFF. We hope his second chance family comes along soon. This sweet boy deserves a wonderful life. Please stop by during the Hancock County Animal Shelter visiting hours: Mon-Fri 10am-3pm, (Tues 12pm-3pm), to meet Atlas. Or, you may call our front desk at 228-466-4516 to schedule an appointment. Please bring your dog(s) and children along for the visit to ensure compatibility.

All the boats, fishing and lunch and everything is pro bono, Schindler said.

“And Sean (Hales), the harbor master, was fantastic -- whatever we needed, he was there.”

Schindler said his crew’s efforts were just a small token of their appreciation.

“We fish, it’s our way of giving back,” he said. “If you have any kind of business skill, trade, hobby, that may benefit people — it isn’t always just about handing out a check — but if you have a skill set or a business or whatever, you can help those guys and gals, you should. It has not worked well. Board president Scotty Adam said the board should look at updating the county’s zoning regarding cargo containers.

TIGERS' SEASON ENDS AT COLUMBIA

BY MAURICE SINGLETON
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Columbia's defense accounted for two first quarter scores to boost the Wildcats to a 35-0 lead after the first quarter on their way to a 48-21 win over the Bay High Tigers in the second round of the playoffs in Columbia on Friday.

Columbia is the top ranked team in 4A in Mississippi, and their season continues as they take on Newton County in the third round of the playoffs.

The Tigers finished the season 8-4 in Jeremy Turcotte's second season as head coach.

"We let it get away from us fast, a couple of mistakes right off the bat, got us behind the eight ball," said Turcotte. "We kind of let things snowball. They're an incredible football team, twenty-five seniors, a lot of future college football players, big time guys."

"I feel like we're a very good football team," said Turcotte. "We're just in the process of getting to where we're wanting to go. We're not satisfied or happy about tonight in any way, shape or form, but over the past four years that I've had the pleasure of being the coach to this group of seniors, I can't thank them enough. A small, but very special group that we're going to miss. It's going to be tough to replace this group of guys."

"We are hoping that we're on the beginning of something," added Turcotte. "We're proud of the season we had, but we are not satisfied."

The Tigers got on the scoreboard with 7:51 showing on the third quarter clock, as Xander Ladner connected with Carson Moran for a 29-yard score. Earlier in the drive Ladner connected with Terron Bedford for an 19-yard completion. Noah Cutter added rushes of 20 and 6 yards on the drive.

The Tigers' second score came two possessions later as Ladner found Cutter past the secondary, good for an 82-yard score. The Tigers trailed the Wildcats 42-14 with 10:21 remaining on the fourth quarter clock.

Benny Williams made a huge play for the Tigers on the ensuing kickoff as he beat the Wildcats' kickoff returner to the football, recovering the ball at the Wildcats' 4 yard line.

Carmello Simpson scored from 4 yards out on the first snap, and the Tigers trailed 42-21 with 5:30 remaining on the game clock.

Columbia's offense scored on their first two possessions, converting on drives of 43 and 75 yards to take a 14-0 lead. Their third score came a 19-yard interception returned for a score and a 20-0 lead. On the Tigers' ensuing possession, the Wildcats blocked the punt into the end zone and recovered it for a 28-0 lead after a successful 2-point conversion run with 3:16 showing on the first quarter clock. The Wildcats would add another touchdown on a 79-yard run as the quarter ended.

Cutter led Tigers' rushers with 97 yards on 18 carries. Carmello Simpson added 22 yards on 15 carries and a touchdown. Ladner completed four of eleven passes for 146 yards, two touchdowns and an interception. Avery Harris was successful on three PAT kicks.

Hawkins led Tigers' defenders with 8 tackles, one tackle for lost yardage and two blocked PAT kicks.

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

The Hancock Hawks honored a nine-member signing class of student-athletes on Friday, November 11.

"Students like these make all that we do worth it," said Tara Ladner at today's fall athletic signing event where nine Hancock Hawks signed with area colleges to continue their academics and athletics.

Families, friends, and coaches gathered together to celebrate the athletes' high school accomplishments and to celebrate their new endeavors. Mrs. Ladner went on to say that she is proud of the students for what they do in the classroom and in the sporting arenas.

Hancock athletic director Jaime Sisco applauded the support of the parents. "Today is a great day for Hancock Athletics. These student athletes should be proud of their accomplishments and all they have done for our school. Now the hard part comes for us, replacing these tremendous representatives of Hancock Hawk athletics, as we move forward! Thank you for supporting Hawk athletics, our teams, and your kids. We are grateful for your parental support."

BWYC Eagan Brothers and Team SYC win Rolex Regata in Newport RI again

BY JAMES KEATING MD

Marcus and Andrew Eagan and their Southern Yacht Club (SYC) team won 1st place in the highly prestigious 2021 Rolex New York Yacht Club Invitation- al Cup that took place at Narragansett Bay in Newport, Rhode Island from September 14-18, 2021. This is the ultimate one design, big boat, amateur (Corin- thian) racing event in the world. The Eagan Brothers and Team SYC won this regatta in 2017. Nine countries from around the world had yacht club sailing teams entered in this five day, nineteen boat, twelve race special event.

The SYC Sailing Team was composed of Skipper John Lovell, Tactician Marcus Eagan, Jib Trimmer Andrew Eagan, Main Trimmer Rick Merriman, Dwight LeBlanc IV, Christian Gambel, Jay Kuebel, Miia Newman and Katy Lovell. Team Southern had race finishes of 1-10-2-4-1-3-3-4-9-2-3-6 totaling 48 points.

This regatta was an evenly matched race with all contestants sailing identical sloop sailboats owned and maintained by the New York Yacht Club. These Melges IC37 boats are very athletic sloops and very tough to sail with- out some young, quick and strong crew mem- bers on board. Each team must compete with an identical set of sails and the rig tune is stan- dardized across the fleet for the duration of the regatta. Identical sailboats put emphasis squarely on the skill of the sail- ors, the decisions they make over the course of five days, and their abil- ity to coax as much boat speed as possible out of the of the sail platform. This team out sailed all the other teams. Sec- ond place had 58 points. Team Southern averaged four points in twelve races because they parlayed solid starts, made pre- scient tactical calls, and accomplished superior boat speed.

Marcus and Andrew Eagan are long-time members of the SYC and the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club (BWYC). They were introduced at young ages to the sport of sailing in Bay St. Louis by their father, Marc Eagan, and their

Now that winter sports are in full swing, the sports of basketball and soccer take focus. All area teams were in action last week on both fields of play.

BASKETBALL

The Hancock Hawks feature both squads at an undefeated 6-0 mark.

The Hawks swept a pair of games with d’Iberville last Thursday.

In the girls game, Hancock played a first half plagued by inconsistency. At halftime, the coaches and squad talk- ed it over and the Lady Hawks (6-0) erupted for a 17-0 advantage to put the game away as they cruised to a 56-34 win.

Hancock head coach Jamie Sisco commented, “We were not playing well defensively, so we discussed that at half- time. We stepped up our efforts in the second half. I am pleased with how we responded in the sec- ond half.”

Maddie Ladner led Hancock with 14 points followed by Jenna Garri- ga with 12 points.

In the boys game, the Hawks gave the Warriors a 2-0 advantage and then went on a 10-0 run to close the quarter en route to a 18-12 advantage at halftime.

Blaine Knight and the Hawks kept the pressure up in the third quarter in- cluding a 75-foot buzzer beater by Knight at the end of the period that kept Hancock up 36-24 en route to a 45-30 vic- tory.

Hancock head coach Colin Goley stated, “Blaine Knight has real- ly been a leader for us on the floor and in the locker room. But, this start and win tonight is a cred- it to the work the entire team has put in. Our size across the board gives us the opportunity to do some different things. We have a lot of length and the team is not play- ing selfish. That is what it takes to win games.”

Knight led Hancock with 22 points.

Hancock beat St. Martin 57-45 earlier in the week.

Bay High lost to Pas- cagoula 57-34 last Tues- day.

Saint Stanislaus (0-3) dropped their game with PRC 39-29.

In other girls action, Bay High (3-2) beat Pas- cagoula 34-26 on Tues- day and Forrest County AHS 45-37 on Thursday.

Hancock upended St. Martin 42-34 on Tues- day.

OLA fell to PRC 50-27 and Pass Christian topped Ocean Springs 31-29 on Thursday.

SOCCER

On the soccer field, Bay High boys (3-5-1) tied Long Beach 1-1 last Tuesday and fell to Harrison Central 3-0 on Thursday.

Hancock (4-1-1) beat Poplarville 3-0 behind Maguire Warton’s hat trick.

Saint Stanislaus (3-2-1) beat Stone 5-1 on Tuesday and stumbled against Biloxi 4-0 on Thursday.

In girls soccer, Bay High picked up two wins last week. On Tuesday, Bay High (4-2-1) beat Long Beach 1-0 and Harrison Central 5-0.

Hancock blanked St. Martin 3-0 on Friday.

OLA (2-2-1) and Pass Christian (1-2) did not report any scores.

Rhodes signs diamond pact with JCJC

Saint Stanislaus se- nior Brandon Rhodes II signed a National Letter of Intent to play baseball for Jones County Junior College on Friday, No- vember 5.

Rhodes, a 6’5” right-handed pitcher, had nine starts in 2021 and recorded a 6-2 record.

He threw 51.2 innings and tallied 51 strikeouts with a 2.16 ERA against just 23 walks. Opposing teams batted just .215 against him.

Rhodes commented, “The more Coach Wes Thigpen and I talked, the more I liked what he had to say about the game of baseball and how I fit into the program at Jones County. I feel like I have the opportunity to excel under his mentorship and tutelage.”

Rhodes stated that he is expected to remain in the pitching rotation for JCJC when he arrives on campus.

Rhodes added, “I have been truly blessed to have a high school coach such as Brad Cor- ley. He really cares about his players, especially outside of the game. He wants the absolute best for every one of us and he works hard to that end each day.”

In addition to starring on the baseball diamond, Rhodes is heavily in- volved with the Student Ministry team at SSX and is a member of the football team.

Rhodes is the son of Mr. And Mrs. Brandon Rhodes of Bay St. Louis.
